

Mushroom Trust (a Scottish Charity, SC007683)

INFORMATION ABOUT THE MUSHROOM TRUST

The Mushroom Trust is a small Scottish Charity. The primary focus of the Trustees is to support the creation and improvement of greenspaces, particularly in urban environments, for the benefit of the public. The Trustees help fund projects throughout Scotland, and in particular projects based in Edinburgh and the Lothians.

In recent years the Trustees have supported a broad variety of projects such as enriching planting, improving paths for public access, enabling the commissioning of landscaping designs for long term planning, developing allotments, improving public parks and play areas, and planting community orchards.

Typically the Trustees make grants of around £5,000 to a number of organisations each year. However, larger grants may be available.

Applications are invited from any organisation or groups with similar projects. The Trustees are interested in supporting groups that can demonstrate public involvement in the project and community based fundraising.
