What is the training about ?

This full day workshop aims to ensure that practitioners are confident in their roles and responsibilities working in a multi-agency environment where unborn babies, children and young people are identified to be at risk of significant harm and to increase practitioner knowledge and understanding of Multi-Agency Child Protection processes and procedures.

Who is the training for ?

This workshop is aimed at newly qualified staff, staff who are new to the service or whose role has changed, resulting in direct work with unborn babies, children, young people and/or their families, and who contribute to the assessment and decision-making process to prevent or minimise risks associated with significant harm.

What level is this training, and do I need any specific skills ?

Attendance at this training should be agreed with your line manager. A foundation level knowledge and awareness regarding child protection policy and practice is desirable.

By the end of the training course participants will be able to:

- Recognise the importance of effective assessment and decision making where a child is identified to be at risk of harm.
- Understand their roles and responsibilities in supporting the multi-agency assessment, planning and review of an unborn baby/ child/young person identified to be at significant risk of harm.
- Describe the roles, responsibilities and functions of the differing Multi-Agency partners and meetings where an unborn baby/ child/young person is identified to be at significant risk of harm.

Whilst some content (particularly regarding policy, guidance and practice) is aimed specifically at NHS Tayside staff, staff from other services will be asked to refer to their own agencies policy, guidance and practice.
